The Virtuous Lawyer's Grand Tour with Jack Marshall

7:30 Registration

8:30 Program

11:30 Adjourn

One 15-minute break will be taken during the morning session.

Ethics expert Jack Marshall returns to Oregon to present this fast-paced, interactive seminar that brings together new case rulings and legal ethics opinions and attempts to bring them into focus. Using current hypothetical scenarios on handling misrepresentation by third parties in court, “zero sum games” cases, patent law conflicts, and an attorney’s duty when confronted with judicial misconduct will be explored.

All references to ethics rules will be based on the Oregon Rules of Professional Conduct.

Understanding Child Abuse and Requirements for Reporting It

11:30 Registration

12:00 Program

1:00 Adjourn

Kelly W.G. Clark, O'Donnell Clark & Crew LLP, Portland. Mr. Clark is a trial and appellate lawyer representing individuals, families, and businesses against large or powerful institutions, public and private. He has brought cases in state and federal court on civil rights, voting rights, education, rights, religious liberty, free speech, and property rights. He is one of the West Coast's leading advocates for victims of child abuse: first while in the Legislature and since then representing over 200 individuals abused as children by trusted adults. Mr. Clark is frequently in demand as a speaker and writer on law and public policy.

If an Oregon attorney has reasonable cause to believe that any child with whom he or she comes in contact with has suffered abuse or that any person with whom the attorney comes in contact with has abused a child, that attorney has a statutory duty under ORS. 9.114 to report the abuse. Identifying child abuse, even for the seasoned professional who has regular contact with children, is very difficult. Crucial to this determination is establishing whether “reasonable cause” exists—which is linked to an understanding of not only the basic signs of child abuse but the psychology of the victim and the offenders.

Resisting the Dark Side: Compliance vs. Ethics Under the Rules with Jack Marshall

1:00 Registration

1:30 Program

4:30 Adjourn

One 15-minute break will be taken during the afternoon session.

To what extent are the Rules of Professional Conduct to be interpreted literally, and how much of their “spirit” is binding in attorney conduct? Using recent cases and legal ethics rulings explore the dangerous parts of the Rules that become traps for the unwary or ethically insensitive. Lively hypotheticals, including solicitation and referrals, a client’s misstatements under oath, and the use and misuse of waivers and client consent, will be explored.

All references to ethics rules will be based on the Oregon Rules of Professional Conduct.

Meet Jack Marshall

Jack Marshall is President and founder of ProEthics, Ltd., and the primary writer and editor of ethicsalarms.com. He has taken the experience from a diverse career in law, public policy, academia and theater, and applied it to the field of legal, business, and organizational ethics.

Mr. Marshall has created more than 100 ethics programs for bar associations, law firms, Fortune 500 companies, and nonprofit organizations. He has worked to develop rules of professional responsibility for attorneys for emerging African democracies through the International Bar Association and for the judiciary of the post-Soviet Republic of Mongolia through USAID.

A member of the Massachusetts and District of Columbia Bar Associations and an adjunct professor of legal ethics at the American University of Law, Mr. Marshall recently completed a book on Clarence Darrow with Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Edward Larson that was published by Random House in June 2007.
