This information-rich seminar provides you with resources to enhance your ADR skills. Learn how to improve your ability to mediate in the face of negative emotions, and gain strategies for implementing post-agreement provisions when faced with resistance to change. Discover how two types of nonverbal behavior, “thin slicing” and subliminal influence, apply to mediation. The seminar also offers four breakout sessions: critical issues in arbitration; mediation styles; confidentiality horror stories; and controlling discovery in arbitration. Special guest presenter Professor Michael Moffitt, University of Oregon School of Law, discusses “Islands, Vitamins, Salt, Germs—Four Visions of the Future of ADR in Law Schools.” Cosponsored by the Alternative Dispute Resolution Section.
